Village News

August 2022

Summer is a social time and we're hoping you're noticing the expanded number of "Members and Guests" events on the calendar. The best way a Village grows is through its members.

This month's meet-ups and member and guest events are all terrific opportunities to connect with your fellow Village members and to introduce the Village to a friend or neighbor.

The Village is full of members with shared interests. This month in our Member Stories section, we're highlighting some of our members who enjoy kayaking. Are you looking for others who share your interests? Remember that you can log in to the website and look through the Member Directory or use the Village Talk feature to connect with other members who share your passions.

Lastly, we're hiring! See the Get Connected section below for details on the part-time Operations Manager we're seeking and how you can help!

Local citizens aided the US Navy, US State Department and New Hampshire Governors during the thirty days of negotiations that resulted in the Portsmouth Peace Treaty. Theodore Roosevelt received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1906 for orchestrating the negotiations that ended what historians now call "World War Zero," the Russo-Japanese War.

A reception sponsored by Boynton Waldron Doleac Woodman law firm will follow on the Carey Cottage porch. Space is limited.

If you are ready to throw in your hat and have the time to serve—or have recommendation of individuals who you know who may not yet be a Seacoast Village member, but who would be a good fit—please forward information and any questions to Kathy Rockwood at krock@seacoastvillageproject.org.

Member Stories: Village Paddlers

“We had just stopped to look at the scenery in Monterey Bay when a mother otter pushed her baby onto the stern of my boat and climbed up after it. The mother then climbed up and promptly nestled into the small of my back, encircling her pup.”

Village member Janet Tucker has been paddling a kayak for more than 30 years and still reflects back on her incredible wildlife encounter in Monterey as one of the most memorable and profound experiences of her life. Other Village members, who count kayaking among their favorite pastimes, have similar tales to tell.

Sandra Cohen-Holmes, who first rented a kayak 25 years and will be leading this month’s meet-up on the Bellamy Reservoir, remembers a night time kayaking trip on a bio-luminescent bay in Puerto Rico. “Though the guides assured us there were no snakes, we could hear them slithering into the water. What is always magical for me when I kayak is the light glittering on the water.”

Whether relatively new to the sport or a seasoned paddler, it seems that a large part of what draws these Village members to kayaking is the chance for intimate interactions with nature. For Kathy Rockwood, who will be leading this month's Ayers Pond meet-up, and Linda Benton, it’s also the peace they find on the water that keeps them coming back.

Kayaking also dovetails with several people’s passions for traveling. Denny Chasteen has kayaked in the Amazon, the Florida Keys, and the "Jungle-like" rivers of Florida while Janet Tucker has explored the Sea of Cortez, San Juan Islands, Everglades and British Columbia by kayak. But this group is quick to report that great paddling can also be had closer to home along the Seacoast and throughout New Hampshire and Maine.

Among these paddlers’ favorite spots are Odiorne Point in Rye; Stonington, ME; Pawtuckaway Lake out of the Fundy Boat Launch; Bellamy Reservoir; Salmon Falls River; Lamprey River out of Newmarket; Bow Lake; Back Islands of New Castle and Portsmouth; and near the Wentworth Coolidge Mansion.

Are you a kayaker looking for others who share your passion? Choose one of this month’s kayak meet-ups from our events calendar and join us! Or coordinate your own Village meet-up at your favorite spot! Email Krock@seacoastvillageproject.org to learn more.
